Subject: You must immediately resign your position

Neil,

The denial of an obvious scientific fact by NOAA on your watch where the agency has bowed to the pressure of President Trump to disavow the information provided by competent scientists in your agency is not something that can be tolerated.

You have abrogated your professional obligation to be truthful about weather patterns and caved to the demand for an obviously wrong commentary on the path of Dorian, created doubt about the worth of NOAA, and degraded yourself for political reasons. You must resign your post now.

Furman University's Richard W. Riley Institute broadens student and community perspectives about issues critical to South Carolina's progress. It builds and engages present and future leaders, creates and shares data-supported information about the state's core challenges, and links the leadership body to sustainable solutions. It is committed to nonpartisanship in all it does and to a rhetoric-free, facts-based approach to change.
